

To Miss Bettie Bondurant.

W A R R Y

The Beau of Mohawk Vale,

A Reply to Bonnie Eloise,

WORDS AND MELODY BY

WILL. S. HAYS,

ARRANGED FOR THE PIANO FORTE BY

FRANK A. CHERRIER,

Louisville, Ky. P. P. Faulds & Co. 539 Main St.

HULL & BROS. PRINTERS.

(THE BEAU OF MOHAWK VALE.)

ANDANTE.

2^d V. Oh! chang'd are the scenes of thy boyhoods sunny years, For the old scenes have chang'd to the 1st V. Oh! sweet was the vale, where we wander'd side by side, Where we sat 'neath the old Elm

new, And these eyes that smiled on you, have been dim'd with sorrows tears, Yet no tree, And the moon smiled on us as we watch'd the eb-bing tide, And you change is there, Har - ry in you. Oh! life is a sun-shine, a - gazed in thy beau - - ty on me. But, sweet - er the smile of his mid such scenes as these Though your home now is crumbling away: You've sparkling black eye, His love will never, never fail, — — For a home in the heart of your "Bonny Eloise," That never, never will decay.

Harry will be true, to his "Bonny Eloise," He's the beau of the Mohawk Vale.

CHORUS.

Air. But sweeter the smile of his sparkling blue eye, His love will never, never fail, — — For Alto.

Tenor. But sweeter the smile of his sparkling blue eye, His love will never, never fail, — — For Bass.

Piano.

Harry will be true to his Bon_ny Eloise, He's the beau of the Mohawk Vale.

.Harry will be true to his Bon_ny Eloise, .He's the beau of the Mohawk Vale. .